Why Choose Professional Representation?

Dealing with the IRS can be stressful. Having an experienced tax professional represent you can significantly impact the outcome of your case.

Effective representation serves as a buffer between you and the IRS, ensuring your interests are protected and you obtain the best possible results the IRS would otherwise propose or consider.

With your own spokesperson, the IRS will treat your case very differently when you have a seasoned professional representing you.

Why Our Firm?

You'll have that seasoned professional team protecting you and your interest with both experience in settling matters with government entities as well as experience working with a large international accounting firm dealing with income taxes and business accounting.

Proper representation will ensure you have:

- ❖ Protection from aggressive collection tactics
- ❖ Professional advocacy during negotiations
- ❖ Expert knowledge of tax law and IRS procedure
- ❖ Peace of mind knowing your rights are protected

You have rights!
It's All About a Fair Settlement of your Tax Controversy

Your Taxpayers Rights

Under federal law taxpayers have significant rights when dealing with the IRS.

In 1988 Congress passed the first Taxpayers Bill of Rights that ensures:

- ❖ Fair Treatment during IRS Collections proceedings.
- ❖ Due process protection and right to privacy.
- ❖ Right to appeal IRS decisions
- ❖ Application of reasonable living standards applied in settlement negotiations.
- ❖ Standards of fairness and accountability of the IRS to understand taxpayers have Rights.

The law was passed to help "level the playing ground" between the IRS and the taxpayer.

Don't Fight the IRS Alone! We're here for you.

When the IRS comes after you, you need experienced tax representation on your side. Our team serves as your advocate ensuring the IRS treats your case with the respect and fairness you deserve.
